THE MUST-SEE COMEDY THIS SUMMER!

PATRICIA HODGE NICHOLAS LE PREVOST

DANDY DICK

PINERO'S CLASSIC COMEDY

TUE 10 - SAT 14 JULY

This Summer, Theatre Royal Brighton Productions - a new national theatre company under the helm of Christopher Luscombe along with Maria Aitken and Philip Franks - are proud to present their inaugural production of DANDY DICK.

Written in Brighton in 1887, DANDY DICK stars Olivier Award-winner PATRICIA HODGE, whose career spans film (Betrayal, Behind Enemy Lines), theatre (Noises Off, Calendar Girls) and television (a BAFTA nomination for Hotel du Lac, Mrs Thatcher in The Falklands Play and, of course, Miranda).

Joining Patricia is NICHOLAS LE PREVOST, whose many theatre credits include My Fair Lady at the National Theatre, for which he was nominated for an Olivier Award. Following his huge success with The Madness of George III in the West End, the fabulous cast of comic actors will be directed by CHRISTOPHER LUSCOMBE.

DANDY DICK tells the hilarious story of the Very Reverend Augustin Jedd, a pillar of Victorian respectability, who preaches regularly against the evils of the Turf. But a visit from his tearaway sister, herself an habitual gambler, leads him to risk all at the races. Mayhem ensues with mistaken identity, illicit cookery and a runaway horse...

RUSH HOUR RAID

Keeping watch: A security guard patrols outside the Bentall Centre

Jeweller's attacked by armed robbers during morning rush hour

A gang of robbers smashed into a jewellery shop with sledgehammers in a rush hour raid in Kingston.

Four men drove two motorbikes into the Bentall Centre and shattered the windows of Fraser Hart during the attack on Monday morning.

During the drama 12 Rolex watches and jewellery were swiped from the shop, but fortunately no staff were hurt.

The raiders entered the shopping centre ton their bikes hrough a pedestrian entrance on Fife Road as commuters swarmed into the town at 9am.

by CLARE BUCHANAN
cbuchanan@london.newsquest.co.uk

It is believed the motorcyclists, dressed all in black with dark visors, dodged cars while driving the wrong direction in the town centre's one-way system and ignored flashes from oncoming traffic as they sped away.

The department store was closed to frustrated shoppers for two hours after the raid until smashed glass was cleared.

Three shocked staff were later seen being ushered out of the shopping centre and the jewellery shop re-opened hours later.

A police spokesman said some valuables were recovered near the scene and they were establishing if it was the property of the shop.

The police flying squad at Barnes are investigating the robbery and are appealing for witnesses to come forward.

The jewellery store was targeted by motorbike raiders twice in 2010, in May and in August, when robbers hit a police officer with a luxury watch as he tried to block them from escaping.

Anyone with information should call 020 8247 4804 or if you wish to remain anonymous phone Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

❑ Luke Doyle, 27, of Cleveland Road, Islington, appeared at South Western Magistrates' Court on Tuesday, June 26, charged with robbery.

He is due to return to Kingston Crown Court on September 6.

Kingston rocks to the Big Sing

Choirs from across Kingston gathered in the town centre on Sunday to celebrate the Olympics by taking part in the Big Sing.

The event – part of Kingston's Cultural Olympiad programme – saw groups of singers performing in various busking sites throughout the afternoon before joining together to entertain shoppers in the Market Place.

The Big Sing was led by renowned international gospel singer, conductor and composer Ken Burton who gave a workshop at All Saints Church for the 750 singers taking part.

Among the choirs were Coombe Girls, the Heart and Soul Choir, Latchmere Adult and Children, Tiffin Boys School, Kingston Rock Choir, Singing It Back, Thames Youth Choir, Canbury Singers, Corpus Christi School Choir, Christ Church New Malden, Hollyfield School choir and Burlington Junior School.

Dawn Reay, acting head of music for Kingston Music Service, said: "The event was a huge success.

"Ken Burton was inspiring and all the choirs sang their hearts out.

"The Market Place was buzzing with positive energy inspired by the lyrics of Lifting me Higher, one of the songs performed by all 750 voices.

"The Big Sing proved that singing is about heart and soul and can be enjoyed by everyone."

Travellers told to move on after pitching on Fairfield

by CLARE BUCHANAN

cbuchanan@london.newsquest.co.uk

Travellers who pitched their caravans on a recreation ground were told they must leave the site following a court hearing.

The five caravans arrived on the Fairfield in Kingston after driving in through a gap in fencing on Monday, June 18.

None of the travellers turned up for the hearing, which was held to decide if they could stay on the site, at Kingston County Court on Tuesday, June 26.

Judge Claire Jakens ruled the travellers were illegally staying on the land and granted an outright possession order, which means they must leave as soon as is practical.

Anne Murphy shares a caravan with her husband and five children and said the decision came as no surprise and they felt it was not worth attending the hearing, which came just before the Kingston Guardian went to press.

She said: "It's what we were expecting. We weren't expecting them to show us any compassion.

"We have no rights. At the moment we haven't been given notice, but when we find out the day they want us out by then we will probably just go."

Another traveller, who only wanted to be referred to as Mike, said they would have liked to stay a bit longer on the site.

He said: "We don't have enough sites, that's the reason we get on the road and why we have to stay here.

"We would prefer a real site. We don't like taking other people's parks and annoying other people."

The travellers had their stay extended for health checks on a pregnant woman and children believed to have measles.

Council security officers manned the entrance into the Fairfield since the travellers arrived to stop more caravans from arriving.

Pedalling their way to £5k target

by NAZIA DEWJI
ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

A father and son duo will be cycling across the country in memory of a loving daughter and sister who died from a rare DNA disease earlier this year.

Just a year after marrying her childhood sweetheart wheelchair-bound Jyoti Bruce died, aged 23, having suffered from mitochondrial disease for more than half of her life.

Her brother Surbiton man Kelpesh Patel, 32, and her father Suresh Patel, 54, who lives in Leicester, have now made it their lifelong mission to continue fundraising and create more awareness of the illness.

Together they aim to raise £5,000 for the Lilly Foundation, a charity committed to finding a cure for mitochondrial disease.

Mr Patel said: "We have been doing these kinds of things for as long as I can remember. So why stop now?

"Jyoti was involved in charity work and was always smiling. She was a very caring person that always wanted to help other people. She never let anything get on top of her.

"My sister is not around anymore so we can't help her, but she would want us to continue to help other people. She would not want us to stop."

Tyre team: Kelpesh and Suresh Patel test ride their bikes. Inset, Jyoti Bruce Deadlinepix KT67652

The pair will cycle for three days during the August bank holiday weekend at 60-mile stints through Hadrian's Cycleway across Tyneside that totals more than 174 miles.

Mr Patel, who shared a close relationship with his sister, has been trying to get into shape ahead of his first long distance cycle ride.

He said: "It is definitely going to be a struggle, but we are up for it.

"I don't mind a game of football but I suffer for three days after so I'm practising cycling and getting myself up to speed.

"We just purchased our bikes last week so we are kitted out and ready.

"My mum still has reservations about my father doing it because he is diabetic, but I am confident he will get there.

"The drive really is to get all that fundraising to someone that deserves it."

Mr Patel's workplace, Etihad Airways, has already donated a signed Harlequins shirt for the cause that will be auctioned to the highest bidder.

Residents take on politicians

Residents' Association councillors in neighbouring boroughs met with groups from Surbiton to encourage them to stand at local elections.

Epsom and Ewell and Surrey County Councillor Eber Kington gave advice on running for office at a well attended meeting held at the New Life Baptist Church in Surbiton.

The talk, which also featured Elmbridge RA councillor Ruth Lions, was organised by the Oakhill and District Residents' Association (Odra).

The group was incensed when Liberal Democrat councillors approved plans to build a polyclinic and school on the old Surbiton Hospital site.

Controversy: Protesters express their concern at Surbiton Hospital last year Deadlinepix KT56388

They are hoping to unite with other RA's in the borough to take on the big political parties at the next local elections.

Speaking at the meeting Mr Kington said that RA candidates in Epsom and Ewell in recent years had successfully fought off unpopular developments, lowered council tax and built a new leisure centre.

Aid urged to put event back on Gardeners, politicians and businesses have expressed disappointment at the news Kingston in Bloom has been cancelled and urged volunteers to help.

Pat Schooling, organiser of neighbouring Richmond in Bloom, said: "I feel terribly for people in Kingston because in Bloom has become very important to residents in Richmond.

Sarah Taylor, co-chairwoman of Surbiton Farmers' Market, said: "It's so important to create an environment that residents and visitors alike can enjoy."

Surbiton councillor Richard Hudson said neighbourhood committees should offer grants, adding: "Together we could raise the money and put Kingston in Bloom on. It would be a damn sight more useful to people in the borough than the £110,000 we are spending on teaching children to cycle."

Councillor Andrew Day said: "Kingston in Bloom makes a huge contribution in promoting the borough and helps boost the economy, that makes the decision to cancel it all the more baffling."

Widower's dismay at In Bloom cancellation

by TOM BARNES
tbarnes@london.newsquest.co.uk

A widower's hope of honouring his dying wife's wish to create an award-winning garden has been dashed after a popular gardening competition was suddenly axed.

Graham Rollinson had hoped to honour his wife Mary, who died of cancer at Christmas, at the Kingston in Bloom gardening competition this year.

But he will not get the chance after the event was cancelled by Kingston Council because of "unprecedented financial pressure" on council spending.

Kingston Council said it could no longer justify the £5,000 expense and 20 days in officer time per year it took to run Kingston in Bloom.

A spokesman said: "A core group of about 40 residents entered Kingston in Bloom on a regular basis.

"While we appreciate that the competition was highly valued by these residents, the council felt it was no longer able to justify the expense or the investment in time."

"We would be keen to provide support and advice to any group or organisation interested in taking over the running of Kingston in Bloom."

But Mr Rollinson, who won last year's competition with his wife and vowed to recapture the title this year, said he was deeply disappointed.

Mr Rollinson, who works part-time teaching sign language to children in Kingston, said: "I feel very let down after all the work I have put in.

"I promised her that I would try and win it for her and now I can't".

The garden's Italian theme, that features statues, a Lilly plant and a special inscription that reads "Mary's Garden", is inspired by his wife's battle against cancer.

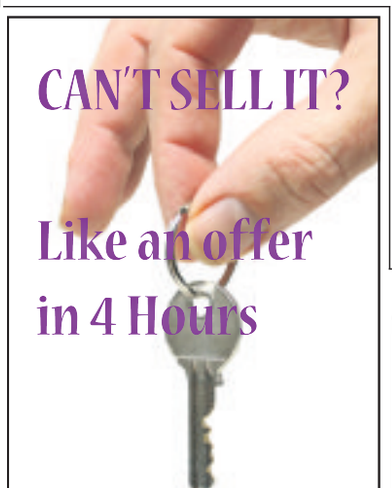

Unable to visit Mr Rollinson's daughters living in Florence, a place he said she loved, he set about bringing a bit of Italy to their Tolworth home.

Murder arrest after mother found dead

by TOM BARNES
tbarnes@london.newsquest.co.uk

A 28-year-old man has been arrested in Spain on suspicion of the murder of a mother-of-two.

The man was arrested by police in San Sebastian on a European warrant last Friday after police launched a murder inquiry into the death of Margaret Sheehy.

The 58-year-old was found dead lying on her couch by colleagues who had forced their way into her flat in Springfield Road, Kingston, after she failed to turn up for work on Tuesday, June 12.

Police revealed last week that it was likely that Ms Sheehy, an Irishwoman known by friends as Margot, had known her attacker as there was no sign of forced entry.

Officers gathering evidence in the hours after her death, which is believed to be late on Monday, June 11, said Ms Sheehy went shopping in Kingston town centre after work.

Detectives initially believed Ms Sheehy had died from head injuries, but a postmortem examination later revealed the cause of death as asphyxiation.

The ex-partner of Ms Sheehy has been devastated by the news.

Edwin Heiss is the father of Ms Sheehy's sons, Chris and Sean, but was not in contact with the financial consultant before she was found dead.

Asphyxiated: Margaret Sheehy was found at her Springfield Road home

Younger son Chris is currently living in Auckland, New Zealand, while older sibling Sean, thought to be in his mid-30s, is registered as living about a mile away in Surbiton.

Mr Heiss said Ms Sheehy was a "wonderful person" and he did not know she was living in England, but thought she was still in Ireland.

He said: "She is the mother of our two sons. It is sad, so sad.

"For some reason, call it love, call it the right moment at the right place, yes, we were in love and through time we became strangers to each other. I am very much sad about this, the final loss, but little is what I can do."

The man will remain in Spain until the extradition process is complete and will appear in court there, police have confirmed.

Pop-up zebra earns dad his safety stripes

Pop-up zebra: Yannick Read with Bertie and Noah Deadlinepix KT68243

A parent took child road safety into his own hands when he created a pop-up zebra crossing outside his son's school.

Yannick Read, 41, laid out the makeshift crossing outside Alexandra Infant School in Kingston after becoming concerned for the safety of his five-year-old son Bertie.

But signs on the public highway that do not have the approval of the Highway Authority are illegal.

Mr Read, who lives in Clifton Road, with wife Eleanor, Noah, eight, Bertie, and Olive, three, came up with the idea during his day job for the Environmental Transport Association, a campaign group based in Weybridge.

The walkway is made up of recycled lino, drainpipes and orange balloons and can be set up in less than a minute.

The council said the crossing would cost £14,000 compared with the cost of Mr Read's £50 homemade effort.

He said: "Although this is a kind of stunt there's a very serious issue behind it.

"We have had a child knocked over by a car on that particular road.

"At Latimer School a child was killed after being hit by a car.

"The reaction from drivers has been very positive. People walking past who see it recognise there is a need for one."

He said a crossing was needed in Alexandra Road, which is a 20mph zone, for children heading to school.

Kingston Council confirmed it had received a request for a zebra crossing near Alexandra Infant School in the past few weeks, but said that the use of pop-up crossings could be illegal.

A spokeswoman said: "The safety of people using our highways is always a priority for the council.

"The Highway Authority has sole statutory empowerment to place or enforce anything on our roads and this ensures the safe use of our highways for motorists and pedestrians."

Asked if he was worried about the risk of prosecution Mr Read said: "No not really. We have done it very carefully and in a controlled way.

"It is more important to highlight the issue."

Up for caring award

A care home manager could be in with the chance to be crowned a national homecare champion after winning a regional battle.

Sarah King has been nominated for a Great British National Care award for her role as a homecare manager at Galleon's Care Coombe Hill Nursing home in Surbiton.

She said: "I'm extremely pleased. I've been with the company for 10 years and it is nice to have recognition.

"In my job everyday is different and the smiles on the residents' faces are one of the most rewarding parts of my job."

The care awards recognise excellence in the sector and will be held on June 23.

Award for veggie restaurant

A vegetarian restaurant that prides itself on snapping up meat-eaters has been rewarded with a green award.

Riverside Vegetaria was announced as the best in London following a public vote and a decision by a panel from Sustain, the alliance for better food and farming.

The award is due to be announced in the July issue of ethical food magazine the Jellied Eel.

Ritchie Sakthivel, 56, opened the restaurant in 1989 because he was not happy with the quality of vegetarian food.

Mr Sakthivel, a New Malden resident, came from Sri Lanka in 1975 at the age of 21, where he had been brought up not to eat meat.

He said: "Seventy per cent of my customers are not vegetarian.

"I attempt to educate non-vegetarians.

"There were other restaurants but they didn't last long."

Making it Big: Author Lyndsay Russell's latest novel has impressed TV producers in the US and, inset, the cast of Episodes

Silver screen beckons for writer in Hollywood

A novelist could see life mirror art when she jets off to Hollywood to work with top TV producers on her film script in a move that echoes hit BBC show Episodes.

Lyndsay Russell wrote Making it Big, a satire about a world where normal-sized woman are loved and skinny women pitied.

The novel's success grabbed the attention of Lee Aronsohn, the co-creator of Two and a Half Men and executive producer and writer of The Big Bang Theory, who asked to read a copy.

Twelve hours later she got a phone call saying that Mr Aronsohn, a "cool, laid-back American New Yorker" wanted to co-write a film with her.

by DAVID LINDSELL
dlindsell@london.newsquest.co.uk

She said: "I have been a huge fan of the show [Two and A Half Men] for way over five years. I was like 'Whoah. He's calling me.

"I'm in a bit of shock actually. We have exchanged hundreds of texts and emails so I know our humour is the same, thank God."

The former feature-writing journalist, who wrote animated children's book The Rainbow Weaver, will leave her husband, Mike Hanson, deputy of BBC Six Music, at their home in Borough Road, Kingston, and jet off to Hollywood for five weeks to work on the script while staying in a top hotel.

The 47-year-old's life is now taking a similar turn to that depicted in Episodes, which stars Friends actor Matt LeBlanc and Tamsin Greig and Stephen Mangan, who are both known for their characters in Green Wing.

After watching the show, which satirises the story of a British husband and wife who struggle to deal with US TV culture when they are lured by Hollywood to produce a new version of their TV series for a US network, she said: "The words Christians and lions keep coming to mind."

Child killer charged with attempting to flee court

Killer: Richard Kwakye has been charged with escaping lawful custody

by NAZIA DEWJI
ndewji@london.newsquest.co.uk

A convicted child killer serving life for murder has been charged with trying to escape from court with a weapon.

Richard Kwakye, from Twickenham, was brought to Kingston County Court on Monday, June 18, for a family-related matter, but managed to escape the court room.

Last July, the 29-year-old was jailed for 35 years for the murder of Siariah Letang, a 19-month-old girl from Thornton Heath.

Officers managed to catch up with the 29-year-old in St James Road, outside Kingston College.

He was later charged with escaping lawful custody, two counts of actual bodily harm and possession of an offensive weapon.

During the drama, which happened at about 4.50pm, two security guards received cuts and were taken to hospital as a precaution.

Kwakye was held in custody overnight before being returned to prison on Tuesday, June 19.

Toddler Siariah died of smoke inhalation after petrol was poured through the letterbox of her grandmother's home in Camberwell, as the family slept.

Kwakye was sentenced to a further 25 years to run concurrently for the attempted murder of her mother, grandmother and two other children who escaped from the building.

During the trial at the Old Bailey last June, the jury heard how Kwakye started the fire on September 18, 2010, at the maisonette in a revenge attack after a fall out with the family.

His 19-year-old brother Dimitri John-Lewis, from Paddington, was jailed for 10 years for the manslaughter of Siariah.

He was also sentenced to a further two years to run consecutively for perverting the course of justice.

Their mother Josephine Nicolas, 46, was also jailed for four years for perverting the course of justice.

Kwakye will appear at Kingston Crown Court on August 30 to face the charges.

Man granted bail over 'mosque attack'

A man has been charged with being part of a mob that attacked Kingston Mosque.

Henry Hunter, 18, of Kingston Crescent, Ashford, appeared at South Western Magistrates' Court on Tuesday.

He was charged with violent disorder and racially or religiously aggravated criminal damage on Kingston Mosque in East Road on November 21, 2010.

He was not asked to enter a plea after magistrates declined jurisdiction deciding the charges were too serious for them to deal with. The case will be formally committed to Kingston Crown Court at a hearing before magistrates on July 17.

Mr Hunter was given unconditional bail.

Green man plan shown red light

A petition calling for a pedestrian crossing in a "hazardous" road appears to have fallen on deaf ears.

More than 600 residents petitioned Kingston Council to install a green man crossing in Queens Road in addition to existing traffic lights in Kingston Hill.

But councillors for Maldens and Coombe and Kingston Town neighbourhoods said no further action should be taken.

At a Maldens and Coombe neighbourhood meeting last week, Councillor Eric Humphrey acknowledged the road was dangerous and said the petition had been prompted by several accidents and in one sad case a fatality.

However, the committee agreed any change to the busy road would create unreasonable delays and said the existing layout provided a reasonable compromise, balancing the needs of traffic and pedestrians.

Exhibition takes flight

My career in the aircraft industry spanned some 40 years, specialising in structural design and including 28 years in Kingston, until retiring in 1988.

Those Kingston years commenced in 1960 in the advanced projects group of Hawker Siddley Aviation, involved in supersonic transport studies, continuing with work on structural design and materials within British Aerospace (HQ Research) and finally within BAE systems (HQ Engineering). A highlight of my Kingston days was secondment in 1970-71 to collaborate with McDonnell-Douglas in St Louis on its space shuttle.

In 1988 there were eight active BAE sites. Now only three remain. As for Kingston, since the demise of the factory in 1992, the town has lacked traces of the 80 years of aviation activity instated by Tom Sopwith in 1912.

However, at long last, there opened in Kingston market square an excellent exhibition devised by the Kingston Aviation Centenary Project covering those years.

This exhibition deserves a permanent display.

Some critical issues in health service shake-up

There are important facts missing from your recent report and some even more important questions not raised.

Sunshine ward provides 24 specialist care beds for children in full-time education up to the age of 18, allowing a parent to stay with their child if necessary. The average stay is two weeks. This is one part of hospital care for children in Kingston. It is important, but concentration on Sunshine ward diverts attention from critical issues.

Better Services Better Value (BSBV) reviews are independent professionals making their best assessment on carefully designed criteria of what adjustments would provide better services and better value. Their recommendations are then put out to public consultation. They were established under the Labour Government at a time when investment in the NHS was guaranteed.

We are now two years into a Conservative/Liberal Democrat coalition Government that is making cuts in the NHS and taking money from front-line services to pay for a top-down reorganisation of the NHS – £10.5m in Kingston.

If it is now inappropriate to have independent professional reviews making proposals on better services and better value, then the Government, of which Edward Davey is a senior minister, has had plenty of time to scrap them.

Retaining Kingston's maternity unit implies a closure of Sutton hospital's maternity ward. The 5,800 Sutton hospital births a year will be shared between Kingston and Croydon hospitals. This means an increase in births in Kingston hospital of about 40 per cent at a time when front-line resources are being cut.

The question is whether Kingston hospital can cope. Retaining Kingston's accident and emergency (A&E) implies the closure of Sutton's A&E and increase in pressure on A&E in Kingston.

How severe that will be is difficult to assess because the development of walk-in surgeries will cater for some patients. The question is whether Kingston's A&E could cope with an increase of 10 or 20 per cent when resources are cut. Our MP should be seeking answers to these questions during public consultation on the BSBV suggestions.

Let's work with Tesco for a better design

Why would anyone be stunned by the new planning application made by Tesco? It was only a matter of time for the retailer to submit a new application.

Apparently MP Ed Davey was not impressed as the scheme did not take into consideration the effect on the A3 roundabout. Neither does the green walk way that will see a reduction in the width of road along the Broadway and will slow traffic and increase congestion on the roundabout and Broadway. But he says nothing about that.

The Green walk way, which has nothing green about it apart from the colour it will be painted, is backed by Liberal Democrats who believe it will attract shoppers.

It will do nothing for traffic congestion.

A new store may do nothing for the roundabout, but it will bring new shoppers more jobs and possibly more businesses to the area. More housing is required that will bring in more revenue for the council.

Even though I am against the development in its current state, the council and MP should work with Tesco to ensure a better design.

Footpaths need repair

In Chessington there does not seem to be a road or a footpath that does not need something doing to it.

You only have to look at the roads and footpaths where I live. The footpath – you have a job to walk on it because it is not flat and by the next bus stop there are two lakes, one each side of the drains, because the road is not flat.

Before repairers do any major roadworks they need to get in touch with the Army to teach them how to put in a road that is flat.

The council filled in all the ditches that had been running for more than 100 years without trouble because this was a village.

There was a ditch that ran by Sussex Gardens that was 5ft deep but the council filled it in and built a house on it before it built Merritt Gardens and that is why they get flooding in Sussex Gardens. It is no wonder our paths and roads are in need of a repair when this council [does not do a proper job]. Down the road from me, they are putting in a crossing. It needs a push button crossing, not what has been done.

Independent Retailer Month 2012

CELEBRATE INDEPENDENT RETAIL

CELEBRATE

Introducing Independent Retailer Month

Independent Retailer Month is a global shop-local campaign that runs throughout July and celebrates the important role smaller, independent retailers play in the local economy, community, and in the retail sector as a whole. Founded in the USA by Kerry Bannigan, CEO of Nolcha, it is lead in the UK by Clare Rayner, The Retail Champion.

Clare explains why it's important for both retailers and shoppers to support each other if the high street is to survive and to continue to offer the local communities throughout the UK with a place to meet, shop, socialise and enjoy.

"The Independent retailers, shops, cafes, salons and boutiques, are what make each of our towns unique. Without them our towns would be clones, with all the same shop fronts – dull and bland. Independents add vibrancy, diversity and often provide a route to market for smaller brands, makers and designers who might otherwise never get their products in front of shoppers. Often leading on service, offering a more attentive, personal approach, it's no wonder smaller, independent retailers are often described fondly as "our friendly, local, independent..."

But times are tough, it's well reported that shoppers have drifted away, attracted by free parking, controlled environment, discounts and apparent convenience of out of town shopping centres. Shoppers need reminding about what's on their doorstep - and that's what Independent retailer month is all about - encouraging the retailers in each local community to work together to create engaging activities, promotions and events that will engage and attract the local shoppers throughout July. The purpose is to showcase the best of what they've got to offer, reminding local shoppers about what they're missing out on by not taking the time out to visit their local retailers.

There are over 169,000 independent retail businesses in the UK, equating to 92% of all retail businesses and on average 60% of all town centre shops are occupied by independent businesses. These retailers form a vital, valuable and treasured part of many communities. They are also an integral part of local economies and contribute greatly to local employment. It is quoted that for every £1 spent with a local business 50-70p makes its way back into the local economy; that's compared to just 5p of the £1 spend out of town… so if shoppers really care about the community and don't want to lose their independent retailers then they need to make the effort to visit them a little more often and buy from them when they can.

Don't get me wrong, this isn't asking for charity, it's no secret that many consumers are tightening their belts and really thinking twice about spending their hard-earned cash. Retailers have a duty to provide relevant, appropriate and interesting products and services, aimed at their local consumers, and aligned to their needs and wants. When the retailers get it right then naturally when consumers visit they'll find things they want to buy and prices that they consider to represent good value for money.

Through Independent Retailer Month retailers have the opportunity to prove themselves to consumers, re-engaging their interest and earning their loyalty. Our plea to the shopper is to make an effort to go and explore what your local community retailers have to offer – spend some time in their stores, understand more about their products and their expertise. After all, if you are spending your hard earned cash its better that it be with someone you can get to know, and trust than with a business where you're just another sales stat!"

Comic star backs festival

Little Britain star Matt Lucas continues to show his support to the International Youth Arts Festival (IYAF) by confirming his attendance at a performance.

The English comedian, screenwriter, singer and actor is a patron of the annual festival and will watch the National Youth Music Theatre performance of The Dreaming at the Rose Theatre on July 19.

by LOUISE ROBERTSON
lrobertson@london.newsquest.co.uk

The play is a musical version of Shakespeare's A Midsummer Night's Dream and will be directed by Jeremy James Taylor, a trustee of IYAF and organiser of Creative Youth.

The show has a distinctly spooky edge, mixed with comedy and music created by Howard Goodall, the composer of theme tunes including the Vicar of Dibley and Blackadder.

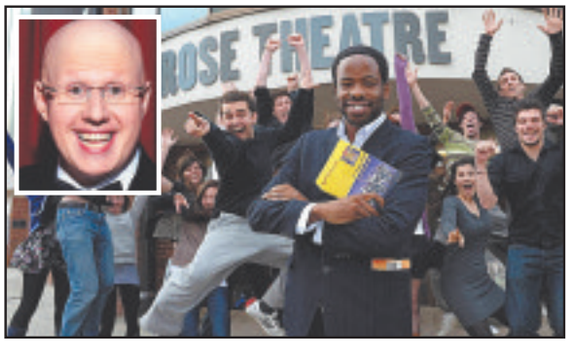

Lucas said: "Having spent my early years working with both the National Youth Music Theatre and the National Youth Theatre, I know the value and excitement of being allowed to create and perform in the company of other like-minded young people.

"Clearly Creative Youth has got off to a flying start and has a hugely promising future.

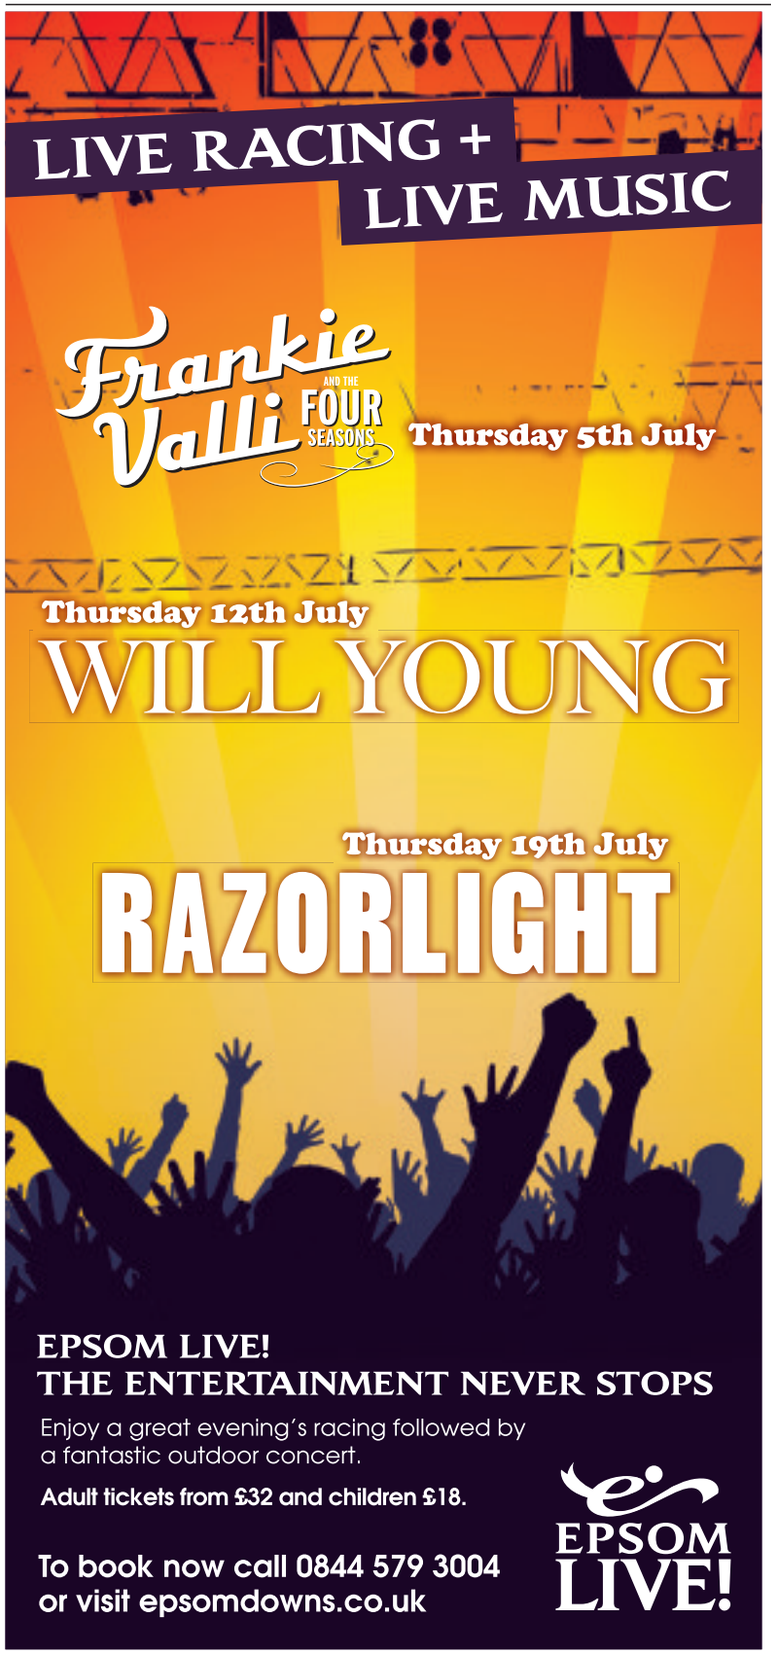

"I am honoured to be a patron and am looking forward to its annual celebration of the achievements of young people in the arts during the International Youth Arts Festival 2012."

IYAF will run from June 29 to July 22.

Losing all REASON

A band is excited about their upcoming gigs in Twickenham and Kingston, and possibly performing at Guilfest in July.

Beyond Reason is a band of "Surrey boys" that was created in October 2010. They consist of Bryn Lucas, vocals and leader, Keef Sloan, lead guitar, Scott Longmore, drums, and Jason Rodericks, bass guitar.

According to Sloan, from West Molesey, their biggest gig to date was at the O2 Islington Academy in London.

However, he believes Guilfest, from July 13 to 15 in Stoke Park, Guildford, will surpass it.

The lead guitarist says: "I am so excited I can't even tell you. It will be a dream. We are pushing ourselves out there and it is great to be a live musician in a live band."

Sloan says the band has been doing very well in the past six months as they launched three new tracks.

The band made a final shortlist along with four other groups and hope to be voted in the festival. Sloan believes that in Twickenham the band has an advantage but Guilfest provides more pressure as it "wants good music and great bands" and is a massive deal for Guildford.

According to the 36-year-old, Beyond Reason entered the Twickenham Green Festival, which will take place in July 1, thanks to their new single Coming Around Again which was picked up by several radio stations as well.

The band will also have a gig at the Grey Horse in Kingston on July 6.

SCANDAL AT THE PALACE

THE ROVER

A scandalous restoration romp will open at Hampton Court Palace next week, writes Hana Hausmeister.

Aphra Behn's revolutionary play The Rover will be staged around the clandestine baroque apartments in a part-alfresco performance directed by the award-winning Amy Hodge.

The success of The Rover made Behn, the first known female playwright, a favourite with the notorious restoration crowd.

Brimming with intrigue, wit, and above all naughtiness, The Rover is as capable of shocking audiences today as it did in its first performance.

The play will be the highlight of the palace's the Wild, Beautiful, and the Damned exhibition, a celebration of the debauched damsels and roughish rakes of the late Stuart court.

As secret home to the retired mistress of Charles II, himself reputed to have commissioned a private performance of The Rover, the palace was the seat of many scandalous affairs.

The promenade performance will invite the audience within the baroque apartments and gardens, a stage historically as illicit as the play itself.

Hodge was the winner of the Jerwood director's award in 2007 and directed the hugely successful production of Winsome Pinnock's Mules at the Young Vic in 2008.

She was associate director of Cardiff's Sherman theatre from 2008 to 2011, where she directed six critically-acclaimed productions.

She will be directing a cast of 28 in the play, which contains adult content of a sexual nature and strong language, and is for over-16s only.

The Rover, Hampton Court Palace, East Molesey; July 2-8; £20, concessions £12; for more information and to book tickets, call 08444 827777, or visit hrp.org.uk/hamptoncourtpalace/whatson/therover.

The beautiful people: Richard Godwin's novel Mr Glamour depicts a killer obsessed with designer labels

Kingston author Richard Godwin's latest novel Mr Glamour details a group of wealthy men and beautiful women with a predator in their midst. The group can buy anything, except their safety from a killer who knows everything they are doing and who even begins to unearth secrets about the two police officers conducting the investigation.

Now as his novel hits the shelves in book stores, the Kingston Guardian caught up with Godwin to find out more about the story, which features some well-known Kingston areas.

KG: Why did you choose the themes of lifestyle and fashion to write about?

RG: I think many people are fascinated by fashion and designer labels. They represent status and something people aspire to. The pages of Mr Glamour drip with exotic and seductive descriptions of many brands, from Versace to the lesser-known exclusive brands of lingerie the female characters in the novel wear. The killer in Mr Glamour is obsessed by brands and what his victims wear and the ending is a set of surprises.

KG: Why is Kingston a recurring backdrop in your novels?

RG: It provides an ideal geographical location for many types of lifestyle to come together. Wealthy residents can coexist with those who have less, crimes can be realistically committed in a novel set there, and there are areas of stunning beauty. Kingston also has an interesting and unusual history, which I am bringing into my fiction more.

KG: Do you have a connection to Kingston?

RG: I live in Kingston and love it. I love its proximity to Richmond Park, a slice of green belt land full of deer just a stone's throw from London.

KG: When did you start professional writing and how did you get into it?

RG: I began my career as a produced playwright before moving into fiction. I also write poetry and literary fiction, but I am best known for my crime and horror fiction, since they are the most commercially popular genres. I have been writing professionally full time now for four years.

Mr Glamour is available at all good retailers and online at a reduced rate this month from Amazon. Visit richardgodwin.net.

Folk superstars Turin Brakes will feature as part of the impressive line-up at this year's Hampton Pool Summer Picnic Concerts.

The chart-topping performers will be joining other famous acts, including Kid Creole and the Coconuts, Bellowhead and Paul Carrack, at the charity festival's 10th birthday this summer.

The band behind the hit Pain Killer (Summer Rain) will be make their festival debut at the shows.

They are acclaimed by critics such as NME magazine, which says: "Turin Brakes inhabit a space which is entirely their own, fully-formed and brutally emotive."

The award-winning, 11-piece folk ensemble Bellowhead will also be new to the festival this year.

The man with the soul-drenched British voice, Paul Carrack, ex-front man of Mike and the Mechanics, will return to the festival with a new show, alongside tribute acts the Illegal Eagles and Rumours of Fleetwood Mac.

Having started as a fundraiser for Hampton Pool, the Summer Picnic Concerts continue to maintain the pool area.

Desire to own a home remains strong as ever

TAMASIN COATES
property@london.newsquest.co.uk

Eighty one per cent of British adults hope to be homeowners in 10 years' time, and 74 per cent aspire to it within two years, according to a new research article published by the Council of Mortgage Lenders (CML).

The article, by CML chief economist Bob Pannell is based on the results of a survey undertaken by YouGov. The survey includes questions that have been repeated consistently since the mid-1970s, enabling comparisons with earlier periods to be drawn.

It shows that the desire for home ownership has fallen back a little in recent years, but still remains strongly entrenched across all age groups.

Aspirations are much higher than current home ownership levels among those aged under 35, but it is far from clear whether and how people will achieve their home ownership goal.

Notably, most of those who are renting privately or sharing with family or friends are under 35, and more than half of these (54 per cent) would like to become homeowners over the short term.

However, only one-third of those who hope to be homeowners in two years' time actually expect it to happen.

Mr Pannell said: "The results clearly show that the British love affair with home ownership is far from over, but achieving the home ownership dream has become more difficult for people, and is likely to remain so, especially for the young.

"We need to ensure that good quality housing is available in a variety of different tenures, and that the growing private rented sector represents an attractive choice for those who do not want, or cannot attain, home ownership. But we also need to recognise that for the overwhelming majority of people, home ownership is still the ultimate goal."

Jason Tebb, regional managing director for Your Move, which has offices in Kingston and Sutton, says more affordable homes need to be built if Britain is not going to be turned into a nation of renters.

He said: "Affordability continues to be one of the main obstacles to house purchase with many unable to raise the high deposits required and many fearing the impact the eurozone crisis may have on their long-term financial security.

"It's understandable, therefore, that many see renting as the only alternative to home ownership but, as tenant demand rises, so too could rents in the longer term.

"The need for more affordable homes to be built – to satisfy both buyer demand and landlord demand – is therefore of increasing importance."

And Wendy Evans-Scott, president of the National Association of Estate agents, said more needs to be done to boost the property market.

"Despite sales figures remaining stable, there is little sign of green shoots of growth in the levels of property supply and demand," she said.

"Growth is being held back by continued restrictive lending policies from the major banks and lack of an adequate mechanism to support the first-time buyer market, a situation which will only get worse if mortgage rates rise as predicted," she added.

"Supply remains a huge issue, with the latest government figures showing fewer homes are being built.

"We support recent industry calls from groups like the National Housing Federation and Shelter for more house building."

Most under 35-year-olds would like to become homeowners sooner rather than later

Admissions Registrar & External Communications Manager

The Admissions office is responsible for a very high volume of applicants for both Year 7 and the Sixth Form. As Registrar you will be responsible for all events, documentation and administrative processes in Admissions for all year groups. In addition, this post holder will lead on external communications for the school including managing the school's website, communication with parents and the wider community.

Your excellent organisational and decision-making skills combined with attention to detail will be complemented by your ability to proactively lead on external communications. It is considered a strong advantage for candidates to have detailed knowledge of current school Admission and appeal regulations, and excellent ICT skills.

Learning Resource Centre & Internal Communications Manager

We need a qualified, motivated and responsive Learning Resource Centre Manager to run our newly opened Learning Resource Centre, as well as our Pupil Librarians. In addition, you will be leading on internal communications within the school, including the preparation of the Staff Handbook, the school and parent calendars and archiving of documents.

Your excellent librarianship skills will be complemented by your ability to communicate effectively both verbally and in writing. Candidates with a professional qualification in librarianship or information management will be preferred.

Salary for both posts: £23,890 pa, for 36 hours per week, term time + two weeks in the school holidays, some of which will be during the summer.

For further details and a downloadable application form, please visit www.tiffingirls.kingston.sch.uk or contact the school office.

Closing date: 6th July 2012.

The Tiffin Girls' School is committed to safeguarding and promoting the welfare of children and young people and expects all staff and volunteers to share this commitment.

NEWSQUEST Media Group
A Gannett Company

Graduate Career Opportunity in Finance with a Media Group

Newsquest Media Group Limited, a substantial regional newspaper publisher in the UK, is seeking a talented graduate to train within finance at the group's head office in Weybridge, Surrey.

You will be given full training and coaching initially to assist the Head office Finance team with:

- Reporting consolidated results, budgets and forecasts to the group's parent company, Gannett Co. Inc, a company whose shares are traded on the New York Stock Exchange;
- Statutory compliance for the group in the preparation of statutory accounts and tax computations and returns; and
- Ad hoc projects

The role would be ideally suited to an accounting and finance graduate with a proven academic record, a high degree of self-motivation to study for professional exams, and an ability to work to tight deadlines. The candidate will need to demonstrate excellent analytical and communication skills, a high degree of literacy and numeracy. Proficient use of Excel is a pre-requisite.

In return we offer a competitive package including 25 days holiday and full support towards ACCA qualification.

Applicants should write enclosing a full CV and current salary details to ebennett@newsquest.co.uk or by post to:

Emma Bennett
Group Financial Accountant
Newsquest Media Group Ltd
58 Church Street
Weybridge
Surrey KT13 8DP

The closing date for receipt for applications is Monday 16 July 2012

Newsquest is an Equal Opportunities Employer.
The company operates a no smoking policy.

Fewer bad drivers are being sent to court

Road safety group challenges government to explain fall

The total number of magistrates' court proceedings for motoring offences fell from one million in 2010 to 888,000 in 2011, down 12.6 per cent.

The findings, based on Ministry of Justice figures released in June, also show that the number of people facing prosecution in magistrates' courts fell from 630,900 in 2010 to 566,800 in 2011, down 10 per cent, according to research by the road safety group The Institute of Advanced Motorists.

Other findings include:

• The number of people facing prosecution for driving offences that resulted in death dropped by 11.5 per cent, from 694 in 2010 to 614 in 2011.2

• The number of people facing prosecution for causing death by dangerous driving fell from 282 in 2010 to 201 in 2011, down 28.7 per cent.

• In 2011, 3,200 people were sentenced to immediate custody for summary motoring offences, a fall of 18.8 per cent since 2010.

• Unauthorised taking of a motor vehicle prosecutions were down 10 per cent from 8,049 in 2011 to 7,234 in 2010.

In magistrates' courts:

• 7,617 faced prosecution in 2011 for failing to stop at an accident, down from 8,531 in 2010 – a fall of 10.5 per cent.

• The number of speeding offences detected by cameras fell by 10 per cent from 70,681 in 2010 to 63,230 in 2011.

• There was an 11.5 per cent fall in the number of people facing prosecution for using a hand-held phone. This fell from 40,000 in 2010 to 35,400 in 2011.

IAM chief executive Simon Best, said: "The recession and the expansion of awareness courses for offences like speeding could well be having an impact on these figures – more people are opting for courses rather than points and this improves driving.

"While we fully support increasing and improving courses for some driving offences, we need to know why fewer drivers are being prosecuted for the more serious offences.

"The government needs to explain the reasons for such a dramatic fall."

EXPRESSION+ 1.2 16V 75 3dr

£179* PER MONTH

Wilsons Renault Kiln Lane, Surrey KT17 1DH | Tel: 0844 244 7229

The official fuel consumption figures in mpg (l/100km) for the Clio 1.2 16V 75 are: Urban 37.2 (7.6), Extra Urban 57.7 (4.9), Combined 48.7 (5.8). The official CO2 emission figure is 135g/km. Warranty applies to new vehicles up to a period of 4 years or 100,000 miles, whichever comes first (first 2 years unlimited mileage). Servicing offer covers cars for 4 years or 48,000 miles, whichever comes first, up to a maximum of 4 services. Services must be carried out in line with manufacturer's requirements and servicing intervals, and can only be carried out at a Renault approved outlet. Renault Assistance Roadside Cover is provided in association with the AA. Cover from month 0 to 36 includes assistance at the roadside and home, national recovery, onward travel and European cover. Cover from month 37 to 48 includes Roadside and Homestart (including a local tow to an authorised Renault dealer). The provider of this cover is the Automobile Association Limited. Rental stated is for Renault Lease. Comparable payments are available on our personal contract purchase product – ask your dealer for details. If you choose Renault Lease then you will not own the car. When you have paid the final rental at the end of the contract, you can keep using the car and pay an annual rental equivalent to one monthly rental. Typical example: Clio Expression+ 1.2 16V 75, advance rental £179 inc. VAT followed by 48 monthly rentals of £179 inc.VAT, final rental £3,571 inc.VAT. A finance facility fee of £149 will be payable with the advance rental. Guarantees and indemnities may be required. You must be at least 18 and a UK resident to apply. Finance provided by RCI Financial Services Limited, PO Box 149, Watford WD17 1FJ. Not available in conjunction with any other schemes or finance offers, please check with your local dealer for information. Offers are available to retail and business customers (but exclude fleet customers with own terms), and are valid on new vehicles, at point of new vehicle registration, when ordered from 1st February 2012 until 30th June 2012. Visit www.renault.co.uk/4plus. Cars shown with optional metallic paint available at an additional £460 on Clio.

Cope closes in on milestone

Malden Wanderers batsman Alan Cope needs just two runs to pass the 500-run mark in league and cup cricket this summer.

Cope, right, hit 84 in the Surrey Championship Premier Division at Camberley on Saturday, as Wanderers posted 191 all out before Giles Puckle's 4-37 helped his side to a 22-run win, but his 35 on Sunday could not prevent a four wicket Conference Cup home defeat to Brentwood.

Wanderers host Weybridge on Saturday.

Fourth time lucky: Kingston-born judo star Karina Bryant

May the fourth be gold for you

Tolworth-born judako Karina Bryant was named in the Team GB judo squad for the London 2012 Games this week and is hoping to make it fourth time lucky.

The 33-year-old, who lives in Camberley, has a host of world and European medals to her name, but is yet to add an Olympic gong to her collection in three attempts thus far.

Bryant, who won bronze at the European Championships earlier this year, will compete in the +78kg category in London having qualified for the event via the world rankings.

"I'm really proud to get to my fourth Olympic Games and to do so through the Olympic qualifying ranking list," she said.

Bryant will be especially pleased to have made the cut having missed six months of last year with a serious neck injury.

New man Weir

by RYAN BANGS
sports@london.newsquest.co.uk

David Weir feels like a new man compared to this time last year, but one thing that has stayed the same is his desire for gold at the London Olympics.

Just 12 months ago, the Kingston AC & Polytechnic Harrier was preparing himself for another cortisone injection in his shoulder, something that was fast becoming second nature with the injury continuing to hamper the double Paralympic champion.

But fast forward a year and shoulder worries are a thing of the past for the 33-year-old wheelchair racer, who this year equalled Baroness Tanni Grey-Thompson's record in winning a sixth London marathon title.

That is not all Weir has had to cheer about this Paralympic year, having already claimed gold at the London 2012 stadium when he raced to 1,500m victory at the London Disability Athletics Challenge in May.

But despite enjoying a golden season already, Weir is nowhere near finished.

"I had a really busy winter this season with me trying to get over my shoulder injury and I am really pleased with how it all went," said Weir, speaking at the Balfour Beatty London Youth Games disability athletics finals at Mile End Stadium.

"I wanted to do it the right way and make sure it wasn't bothering me this time around and I think you can see from my results that it has worked.

"In all my 1,500m races this year I have gone under three minutes and I don't think there is anyone else in the world that has done that.

"I just have to keep working at it and make sure the good season continues for a few more months."

For the full story see Friday's Surrey Comet.

Short fall for Jade

Surrey County long jump champion Jade Johnson – pictured above winning gold at Kingsmeadow last month – is unlikely to make the London 2012 Olympic cut after a disappointing weekend.

The 32-year-old Herne Hill Harrier finished 10th at the UK Athletics Olympic Trials on Sunday with a jump of 6.21m.

Kingston AC & Polytechnic Harrier Dominique Blaize, 24, finishing fifth with a leap of 6.35m.

All quiet on the Kingstonian front for Dowson

It is all quiet at Kingsmeadow and that is the way Kingstonian boss Alan Dowson likes it – for now, writes Stuart Amos.

The Ks' squad returns to pre-season training this Saturday with a run round Bushy Park.

Dowson, right, is preparing for his sixth full season in charge and has so far resisted the opportunity to bolster his squad, but he expects that to change in the coming weeks.

"There will be plenty of new faces who turn up at training. Some we will be looking to sign and some who will have work to do to convince us they are a worth a place in the squad," said.

"It has been pretty quiet this summer, which is the way I wanted it.

"But we have spoken to plenty of players and I expect some exciting announcements – about new players and our pre-season friendlies – within the next couple of weeks."

SPORTS*brief*

MOTORSPORT: New Malden's Tom Onslow-Cole enjoyed a return to form in the British Touring Car Championship at Croft on Sunday. The 25-year-old finished seventh, sixth and second in the three rounds having qualified 10th on the grid on Saturday. The championship moves on to Snetterton on August 12.

ATHLETICS: Kingston AC & Polytechnic Harrier Felix Hatton, 27, threw more than three metres short of his season's best as he finished fourth at the UK Athletics Olympic Trials in Birmingham on Saturday. Hatton, 23, threw 68.36m when an attempt closer to his best for this year of 71.63m, would have landed him a bronze medal.

CRICKET: Worcester Park fell two wickets short of victory at Trinity Mid-Whitgiftians in Surrey Championship Division Two on Saturday. Park were dismissed for 188 and Trinity seemed set for victory but slumped from 106-2 to 136-8 as the visitors, who host Walton on Saturday, secure the winning draw.

HOCKEY: Surbiton hockey stars Richard Alexander, Ken Forbes, James Tindall, Matt Daly and Rob Moore will learn their Olympic fates today when Team GB officially announce the men's hockey squad for the London 2012 Games.
